Joy ride in ambulance

BRONX. A man stole an ambulance to take on a joy ride, according to the Daily News. Michael Navarro, 30, was reportedly high on drugs when he stole an ambulance from Mount Sinai Monday, driving it through Manhattan before cops stopped him. Officials said two emergency workers were taking a wheelchair from the hospital and noticed their ambulance was missing. He was charged with grand larceny. METRO/AB

Hunt on for serial robbers

WEST SIDE. Cops are looking for two thieves they say robbed at least three places from Oct. 13 to Oct. 20. During the first incident, on Seventh Avenue, the suspect simulated having a gun and took cash from the register before fleeing. The other robberies were at a handbag store and a pawn shop, where the robbers fled with cash. The two suspects are described as 25 to 35, black, with thin to medium builds.

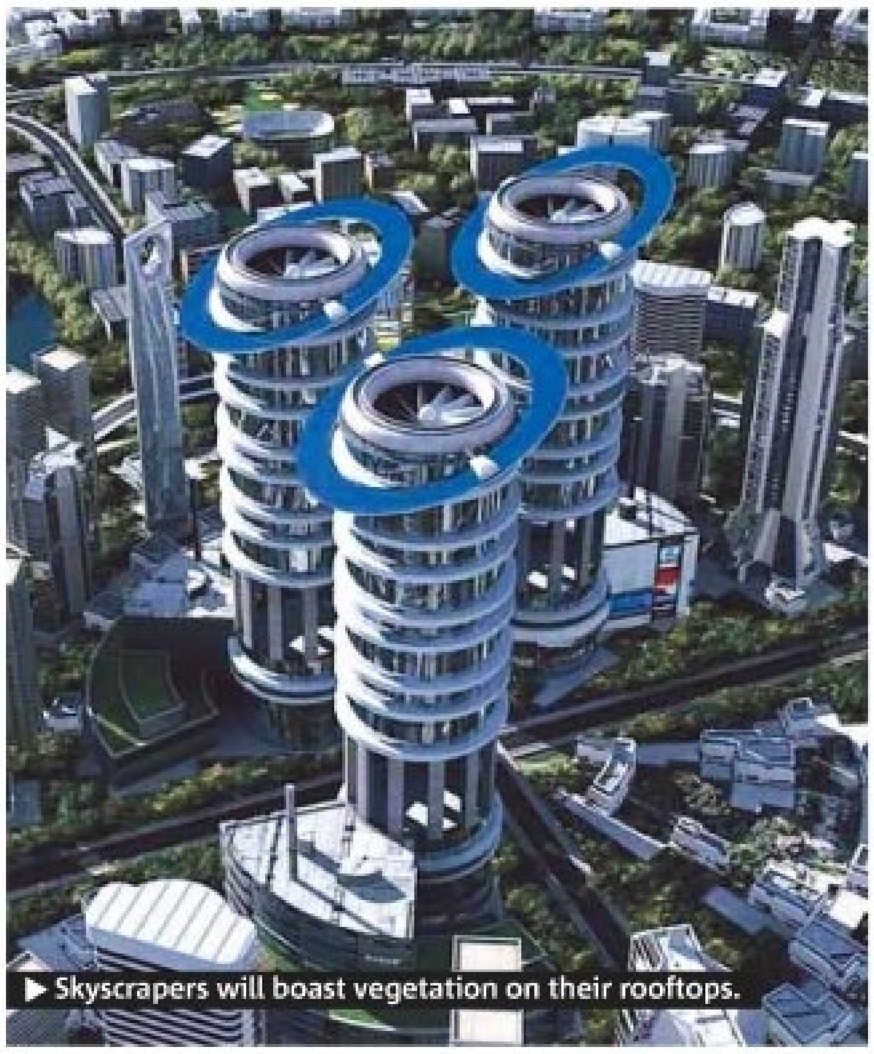
New New York: What the near future will bring

- City could have wind farms within view of the Brooklyn Bridge
- Garbage might be sold as energy
- Faster commutes from the boroughs

SIEMENS



▶ Skyscrapers will boast vegetation on their rooftops.

In a few decades, you'll probably be working in your underwear with a robot handing you coffee and an apartment door so smart it might recognize your friends' faces.

Those are some of the ways New York might look differently in 2050, according to Dr. Ulrich Eberl, author of "Life in 2050."

In the New York of the future, Staten Island ferries might dodge wind farms, like the kind Mayor Michael Bloomberg already suggested putting in Long Island waters.

The skyline will also look different, with towers sprouted at the World Trade Center and 10 different subway trains zooming below in the Fulton Street Transit Center.

Getting into Manhattan will be much easier, said Jonathan Bowles, executive director of the Center for an Urban Future.

"I'm not suggesting flying taxis for sure," Bowles told Metro, "but I think improvements in transit will be made, whether it's really fast buses or much faster subways."

You might not need to commute at all — many will telework, Eberl said, in apartments smart enough to recognize weather or even faces.

And piles of smelly garbage? By then, Bowles said, the city might have figured out a way to profit from turning garbage into energy.

What to expect

By 2050, Eberl envisions:

- Floating green islands for farming and trees on rooftops.
- Solar power plants and wind turbines high up between skyscrapers.
- Thousands of surveillance cameras on skyscrapers will be checked by mini-robots. "Robotic assistants will be increasingly accepted in the home," Eberl added, saying they might provide everything from reading out loud to cleaning dishes.
- Cars that communicate with traffic lights, signs and other cars.

Building collapses in Brooklyn, workers buried under rubble

Library head arrested for DWI

▶ Cops arrested him after he was reportedly spotted hitting a parked car in Harlem ▶ Twice the legal limit

▶ Anthony Marx received a DWI Sunday.

The president of the New York Public Library was arrested for driving drunk while reportedly trying to maneuver around the marathon Sunday, hitting a parked car instead.

Cops said Anthony Marx, 52, ran into a parked car Sunday afternoon on East 138th Street in East Harlem. His blood alcohol content was reportedly 0.19, twice the legal limit.

The car is registered to the New York Public Library, according to the New York Post.

Sources told the newspaper he was trying to wind around the marathon route, which shut down streets across the city Sunday. He was charged with DWI and released without bail.

Marx apologized for any embarrassment to his family or the library yesterday and said he hoped the incident did not distract from the library's work and goals.

Horse vet regrets comments

NEW YORK. A veterinarian who told reporters that a carriage horse died in pain on its way to Central Park was suspended after her remarks, which she said were made "under a lot of pressure."

The New York Times reported that Pamela Corey, a veterinarian for the ASPCA, was suspended after saying the horse "was likely suffering from pain." She later corrected her statement to say there was no evidence that Charlie, the horse, died in pain, saying she was "under a lot of pressure" when the group sent out the press release.

Charlie collapsed on a Midtown street two weeks ago, and animal activists demanded an autopsy. Animal rights' groups are also calling for an end to the carriage horse industry.

Increases Insulin

Decreases Sugar Made In Liver

- JANUVIA is a once-daily prescription pill that helps your body increase the insulin made in your pancreas and decrease the sugar made in your liver.
- Along with diet and exercise, JANUVIA helps lower blood sugar levels in adults with type 2 diabetes.
- JANUVIA is not likely to cause weight gain or low blood sugar (hypoglycemia).

JANUVIA (jah-NEW-vee-ah) should not be used in patients with type 1 diabetes or with diabetic ketoacidosis (increased ketones in the blood or urine). If you have had pancreatitis (inflammation of the pancreas), it is not known if you have a higher chance of getting it while taking JANUVIA.

Selected Risk Information About JANUVIA: Serious side effects can happen in people who take JANUVIA, including pancreatitis, which may be severe and lead to death. Before you start taking JANUVIA, tell your doctor if you've ever had pancreatitis. Stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away if you have pain in your stomach area (abdomen) that is severe and will not go away. The pain may be felt going from your abdomen through to your back. The pain may happen with or without vomiting. These may be symptoms of pancreatitis.

Do not take JANUVIA if you are allergic to any of its ingredients, including sitagliptin. Symptoms of serious allergic reactions to JANUVIA, including rash, hives, and swelling of the face, lips, tongue, and throat that may cause difficulty breathing or swallowing, can occur. If you have any symptoms of a serious allergic reaction, stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away.

Kidney problems, sometimes requiring dialysis, have been reported.

If you take JANUVIA with another medicine that can cause low blood sugar (hypoglycemia), such as a sulfonylurea or insulin, your risk of getting low blood sugar is higher. The dose of your sulfonylurea medicine or insulin may need to be lowered while you use JANUVIA. Signs and symptoms of low blood sugar may include headache, drowsiness, weakness, dizziness, confusion, irritability, hunger, fast heart beat, sweating, and feeling jittery.

Your doctor may do blood tests before and during treatment with JANUVIA to see how well your kidneys are working. Based on these results, your doctor may change your dose of JANUVIA. The most common side effects of JANUVIA are upper respiratory tract infection, stuffy or runny nose and sore throat, and headache.

Call 1-888-JANUVIA or visit Januvia.com.

Now you can get JANUVIA for as little as $5 per prescription.*

Brokers battle with OWS for downtown market

After fighting for a decade to resuscitate the real estate market in Lower Manhattan, brokers face a new obstacle: Occupy Wall Street.

Real estate agents say they not only have to promise buyers the area is safe from another terrorist attack, but they also have to escort potential renters through a maze of barricades, screaming protesters and unsightly portable toilets.

"A client asked me, 'What is this all about?'" said broker Gea Elika at Elika Associates. "I wish I knew."

Buyers are often bothered by the hubbub at Zuccotti Park, another broker said.

> "We just try and get to the viewing as best as possible, and sort of not pay much attention to it, but that's also difficult too."
> A BELLMARC BROKER

"The clients are definitely turned off by the idea of walking through a protest to look at apartments," Bethany Walsh, the managing director of Prime New York, said.

She's learned to slip past the protest to reach a Greenwich Street property with minimal exposure, and she directs her clients to do the same.

"It's a concern for a lot of clients," she said. "They ask when is the best time to go down there, how long will it be there."

With no end in sight, Walsh, who said she supports the group's right to protest, downplays the movement.

"I just say it's not really that big of a deal," she said.

New Cain slogan: Nein, nein, nein!

- Republican candidate continues to deny growing number of sexual harassment allegations
- Businessman swears he won't quit the race

Herman Cain defiantly denied sexual harassment allegations against him yesterday and vowed they would not force him to withdraw from the race for the 2012 Republican presidential nomination.

"Ain't going to happen," Cain said, referring to the chances of giving up his presidential bid. "We will get through this."

Cain spoke at a news conference to respond to Sharon Bialek, a Chicago woman who went public on Monday with allegations that Cain made a crude sexual advance against her in 1997 when he was head of the National Restaurant Association. She is the fourth woman to accuse him of sexual harassment.

Cain denied ever having seen Bialek until she appeared on television with her lawyer Gloria Allred to lay out allegations that he insisted "simply did not happen."

Sarkozy gaffe: Calls fellow leader 'a liar'

PARIS. French President Nicolas Sarkozy branded Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu "a liar" in a private conversation with U.S. President Barack Obama that was accidentally broadcast to journalists during last week's G20 summit in Cannes.

"I cannot bear Netanyahu, he's a liar," Sarkozy told Obama, unaware that the microphones in their meeting room had been switched on, enabling reporters in a separate location to listen in to a simultaneous translation.

"You're fed up with him, but I have to deal with him even more often than you," Obama replied, according to the French interpreter.

The technical gaffe is likely to cause great embarrassment to all three leaders as they look to work together to intensify international pressure on Iran over its nuclear ambitions.

White House press secretary Jay Carney declined to comment on the conversation when asked by reporters. REUTERS

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Religion important to voters, poll finds

- Beliefs can be different than their own, but must exist
- 67% would be uncomfortable with atheist as president

Two-thirds of Americans believe it is important for a presidential candidate to have strong religious beliefs, even if those beliefs are different than their own, a survey released yesterday found.

The survey of Americans' attitudes by the nonpartisan Public Religion Research Institute found only one in five Americans would object to a candidate whose beliefs were different to their own.

When asked about specific religious faiths and the presidency, 29 percent of Americans would be uncomfortable with an evangelical Christian in the job, 53 percent would be uncomfortable with a Mormon, 64 percent with a Muslim and 67 percent would be uncomfortable with an atheist as president.

Former Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney and former Utah Gov. Jon Huntsman are Mormons running for president. The remaining Republican candidates are Christian, with some espousing strong beliefs.

Eight in 10 Americans believe creating jobs is the nation's most important priority, the survey found, while six in 10 said reducing the government budget deficit is critical. REUTERS

On Obama

- President Barack Obama was seen by 44 percent of those polled as having good ideas about how to create jobs, compared to 35 percent backing the approach of Republican leaders in Congress.
- Opinions of Obama showed 28 percent pronounced themselves "satisfied" and 5 percent "excited" about his presidency, while 26 percent felt "worried" and 10 percent felt "angry." Nearly one in three felt "disappointed" in his presidency.

First fur ban in W. Hollywood

Putting animal rights over fashion imperatives and its own vibrant shopping scene, West Hollywood's leaders have given final approval to a first-in-the-nation ban on the sale of fur clothing within city limits. The five-member City Council of the tiny municipality wedged between Beverly Hills and Hollywood voted 3-1 with one abstention yesterday-to approve the ordinance, said City Councilman John Heilman, who voted no. Job openings hit a post-2008 high

- Market looks better for the masses of unemployed
- But lack of skills may keep some collecting benefits

If you're looking for proof that the labor market is recovering, here it is.

There were 3.4 million job openings in the U.S. in September, an increase of 300,000 from the month before and the highest number since mid-2008, according to government data released yesterday.

That still falls short of the peak of 4.8 million job openings in March 2007, six months before the recession officially began, but it represents an increase of 1.2 million jobs over the lowest period in July 2009.

Italian PM to resign?

Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi will resign following a humiliating vote in parliament yesterday, President Giorgio Napolitano said. Holidays come early for buyers

WASHINGTON. Credit card issuers are bumping up their rewards for the holiday shopping season as they seek to lure consumers away from debit cards and competitors. For shoppers with decent credit scores, this can provide the opportunity to pick up extra cash or miles while they do their gift shopping.

"The rewards have become very, very attractive in terms of cash back and travel," said Bill Hardekopf of LowCards.com. "Issuers have stepped up the rewards because it's now more lucrative for the banks for you and me to use our credit cards instead of our debit cards."

Both Chase and Citibank have cards that are offering new applicants $200 in cash back after they spend $500 on their cards. REUTERS

Melissa McCarthy: Don't fear the jumpsuit

McCarthy attended Tuesday night's "Soap Dish" event in New York City.

After she took the stage to launch Ivory Soap's new "Soap Dish" Facebook community for moms in New York City on Tuesday night — and was presented with a giant bar of Ivory carved in her likeness — Melissa McCarthy took a few moments to chat with Metro about the possibility of a sequel to "Bridesmaids," the summer blockbuster that made her a household name.

"[It's a] yes for me, [but I] don't know that it's happening," she told us. "I'll basically show up anywhere with those women — even if it's, like, a long bus trip, I'll go with them — but no talk of it yet. I think everyone's so busy. But I wouldn't mind it down the road just because I love that group."

McCarthy is indeed keeping very busy. Not only did she win an Emmy this year for her sitcom "Mike and Molly," but she's also developing her own clothing line for plus-sized women. "It's so preliminary right now. I know I want a jumpsuit in it. I'm not afraid of it. I love a jumpsuit."

And when we asked if she's creating the line to be a role model for girls who aren't a size zero, the awesome actress just laughs. "No, I think I'm just selfishly making it for myself!" She elaborates: "I want separates, for the love of God, because everything's like a bad prom dress. You can find a million bad sleeveless dresses in satin. I'm like, 'Where's a good blouse and great trouser?'"

▶ Is there a direct correlation between high gas prices and the Duggars breeding?

Like the Brady Bunch … but on steroids

Someone please stop Michelle and Jim Bob Duggar. The reality TV couple and human rabbits announced yesterday on "Today" they are expecting their 20th child this spring — this after their 19th baby, Josie, was born at only 25 weeks and survived a host of expensive and life-threatening medical problems. Michelle also suffered preeclampsia and gallbladder problems through that pregnancy.

"We are so excited," said Michelle, 45, who is three and a half months into her new pregnancy.

Jim Bob, 46, echoed his wife's sentiments, saying, "Michelle and I both feel like some of the most blessed parents in the world."

"We didn't want to stop on an odd number," he added.

Whew. Here I thought they wouldn't have a good, medical reason for putting Michelle's life at risk and adding to an already crowded world. Being particular about an odd versus even number is totally logical.

Talking points

Hugh likes Lohan

Hugh Hefner is excited about Lindsay Lohan's upcoming appearance in Playboy, saying the actress' all-revealing photo spread is "classy, very classy," he tells "The Insider." "It's a classic tribute inspired by the original Tom Kelly nude pictorial of Marilyn Monroe, a portion of which was the original playmate in the very first issue of Playboy." And apparently readers will be treated to Lohan's words as well. "The pictorial is absolutely fantastic and very tasteful," Lohan's rep says, "and will be accompanied by an interview that will let readers see another side of Lindsay."

Chastain lands another role

▶ Chastain

Jessica Chastain has been cast as Princess Diana in "Caught in Flight," a film about her alleged affair with heart surgeon Dr. Hasnat Khan, IndieWire reports. According to a press release, the film is "a love story between a princess locked in a tower and an ordinary man," and is set to begin filming in Pakistan, Angola and France in March 2012. Diana is said to have had a two-year affair with Khan leading up to her death in 1997.

Adele should be singing in no time

Adele has undergone surgery to repair her damaged vocal chords and is said to be recovering nicely, according to Rolling Stone. Her doctor "expects Adele to make a full recovery from her laser microsurgery," according to a statement from Massachusetts General Hospital's Voice Center. The singer was forced to cancel the remainder of her concerts and appearances due to a hemorrhaged vocal chord.

'Bad Kid,' excellent show

In his new one-man show, storyteller David Crabb takes the audience on a journey through his Texas teenage past — and some choice outfits

David Crabb is a "Bad Kid."

For most of us, those formative years are best kept hidden and forgotten in the deepest depths of our memories. So revisiting those moments — let alone making a play out of them — takes a lot of guts. And yet David Crabb is willing to relive his youth in front of an audience that may or may not applaud and enjoy the joke that is his life.

In his latest one-man show, "Bad Kid," Crabb plays himself, a Texan teenager whose coming-of-age journey is hazed by drugs, alcohol and cigarettes and titillated by sexual identities, confusion and experimentation. To make things worse, this 17-year-old walking disaster is packaged in goth clothing and shady makeup as he waddles through high school and a perpetual "high" life.

"Those years were so saturated and concentrated with events and happenings and mishaps. And through all these, there are lessons to be learned," Crabb explains today.

As he recounts his life, the veteran storyteller employs a deft and often humorous use of voice mimicry to bring to life his colorful cast of characters. His narration reveals patchy snippets of memories that are as hilarious as they are astute, and as delightful as they are heart-wrenching.

"I have been doing storytelling for a long time," Crabb says, "and I just thought that it would be great to put a story of my life on stage and have fun with it. Even though some parts are pretty sad and tragic, it is still my story to tell and I want to tell it."

COURTESY OF ACTIVISION

5 Things to know about 'Call of Duty'

▶ The year's most anticipated video game hit shelves yesterday ▶ For those who haven't been playing nonstop since then, here's why it's such a big deal

When we say 'Call of Duty: Modern Warfare 3' is the biggest game of the year, we mean it

In fact, this could be the best-selling game of all time, beating the previous record-holder, last year's "Call of Duty: Black Ops," which racked up more than $1.5 billion in sales. That's more than the worldwide gross of any film ever, save for "Titanic" and "Avatar."

So what's the game about? World War III, basically

Like any good blockbuster, New York, Paris and London are among the cities terrorized, turning into virtual battlegrounds — and Russia is an antagonist. In single-player mode, it's up to you to stop the threats. In multi-player mode, you can team up to help or just shoot the hell out of someone else.

The Activision title goes beyond the box

The service "Call of Duty: Elite" logs your stats and allows for social networking; a premium version leads to actual real-life prizes and more.

Celebrities are involved!

"Grey's Anatomy" star Kevin McKidd voices a Task Force Captain, and character actor William Fichtner ("Armageddon") and Corey Stoll (Hemingway in "Midnight in Paris") play Delta Force ops.

The other recently released big combat game, from EA games, also involves nuclear terrorism, multiplayer battle and scenes in Iran, Paris and New York. Both titles have rabid fan bases. But an analyst told Forbes he expects "Battlefield 3" to sell eight million copies. "Modern Warfare 3"? Sixteen million. METRO

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER
SUSAN ORLEAN
AUTHOR OF The Orchid Thief
RIN TIN TIN
THE LIFE AND THE LEGEND
"Deeply moving . . . An unforgettable book about the mutual devotion between one man and one dog."
—THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

▶ "Rin Tin Tin: The Life and the Legend" looks at how a soldier from California found the original Rin Tin Tin on the battlefields of the first World War and made him — and his successors — a star.

A woman and her dog

Susan Orlean spent 10 years researching and writing the new book on the world's most famous dog How Rin Tin Tin captured her — and the world's — attention

Best-selling author Susan Orlean keeps expecting someone to drop off a German shepherd dog at one of her readings any day now.

"I keep assuming someone will show up with one," she laughs. "But so far, no dog."

It would be a fitting gift for Orlean. After all, she is the mastermind behind the definitive new book about the most famous German shepherd dog of all time, Rin Tin Tin.

And it wasn't just because she was a dog person that she decided to spend 10 years of her life researching and writing "Rin Tin Tin: The Life and Legend."

"What took it from just being an afternoon spent goofing around on Google to a book was the complexity of the story," she notes. "Of course, Rinty was a dog, and that made it irresistible. But the thing that really made it for me was sometimes the more you research, the more things become small and familiar. Here, it was just the opposite. The more I learned, the more it grew and it just became a bigger and bigger story."

Orlean's account of Rin Tin Tin — the world's first canine film star and, arguably, the most successful dog brand of all time — is hitting shelves when a slew of other bigtime books about dogs are also being published, notably Jill Abramson's "The Puppy Diaries" and Julie Klam's "Love at First Bark." Orlean is diplomatic towards her competition. "There's just a huge emotional tie to all things dog right now. People really love their dogs — and they really love to read about them."

The dog behind the name

One reason Rin Tin Tin has stayed in the public consciousness for more than 80 years was his name. "It's mysterious and memorable. It sounds like a nonsense word, almost," says Orlean. "The other movie star dogs at the time, Braveheart and Wolfheart, are lost to time. They're just less distinctive names."

Not your mother's Slim-Fast

We have a confession to make. The new flavors in the iconic weight-loss shake company's repertoire taste, well, really good. Like, milkshake good. The new drinks are part of Slim-Fast's 3·2·1 Plan — which calls for three snacks, two shakes or meal replacements bars and one 500-calorie meal — and come in five flavors like creamy milk chocolate and cappuccino delight. Each boasts 10 grams of protein and 5 grams of fiber, and even the container is new: Slim-Fast has traded those old-school cans for sleek new bottles.

November is here, and so is Movember ▶ Guys, your facial hair can make a difference ▶ 'It started as a social experiment,' says founder

You might be noticing a larger-than-usual number of men growing mustaches this month. Welcome to Movember, the annual campaign for raising awareness and funds for prostate and other male cancers. Now in its fifth year in the U.S., Movember started as a joke in Australia in 2003, when Adam Garone — Movember's CEO and co-founder — along with his brother and a friend were lamenting the death of the '70s mustache. The trio dared each other to grow a mustache and keep it for an entire month. And what's in a name? Mo is Aussie slang for mustache.

> "We were inspired with what women were doing to raise awareness about breast cancer. Prostate cancer is the male equivalent of [female] breast cancer in mortality rate." ADAM GARONE

"It started as a social experiment, and then we legitimized it by adding a cause," says Garone, who now lives in Santa Monica, CA. "We were inspired with what women were doing to raise awareness about breast cancer. Prostate cancer is the male equivalent of [female] breast cancer in mortality rate."

In 2010, nearly 65,000 participants started November clean-shaven and grew a mustache for 30 days, raising $7.5 million for the Prostate Cancer Foundation and LiveStrong, the Lance Armstrong Foundation, which are Movember's U.S. men's health partners.

"A mustache starts a conversation," Garone says. "There's a reticence in many countries to acknowledge prostate cancer. The mustache adds this fun, rebellious aspect to it. We want men to talk about prostate cancer. Men at my age, 40, need to start getting tested."

MJ: The cult of irresponsibility

RE: "MJ DOCTOR GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER": Despite pleas of "more milk [propofal]" by Michael Jackson (apparently devoid of personal responsibility), Dr. Conrad Murray was found guilty of involuntary homicide because he was supposed to act as the ultimate stop gap for the harmful behaviors of his patients. Meanwhile, in our recent economic upheaval created by a burst mortgage and real estate bubble, while many wannabe home owners thirsted for homes they couldn't afford, mortgage bankers were supposed to be the ones to say no. Wall Street traders were supposed to say there was no market for subpar mortgages and ratings agencies were supposed to condemn toxic products. They did the opposite. So why aren't they sent to jail for involuntary fiscal malfeasance?

DAVID DIBELLO, BROOKLYN

New Cain on the block

RE: "CAIN ACCUSED OF GROPING": Even if the allegations by that chick who looks like Christie Brinkley's evil twin are true, then Herman Cain is in good company. His alleged penchant for the ladies pales in comparison to lotharios such as Bill Clinton and Martin Luther King Jr. MICHAEL CHIMENTI, OAKLAND GARDENS

I don't know if Herman Cain is my top choice for president; I need to know more about his character. What I know for sure is that if it came to deciding between Cain and Obama, the issue is clear — I'd vote for anyone over a man who has done everything in his power to diminish our economy and national security.

JOSEPH DUPONT, VIA E-MAIL

It's a sad comment on the reality show mentality of this country that Herman Cain's clumsy sexual advances have caused his problems — not his extremely dangerous economic and social policies.

PAUL SIMONS, VIA E-MAIL

No reason to complain, OWS

Instead of standing around complaining, Occupy Wall Streeters should ditch their tents and pick up a briefcase. It took me a year to find a decent, paying job after college — but after 500 resumes I managed to land three offers. Coming from a poor background, I had to take on a lot of debt; but I am now confident I'll be able to pay it back. America is still the land of opportunity.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. In order to spur you onward, you should find some challenging outlets that stimulate you both physically and mentally. It'll be just such kinds of situations that can encourage you.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. This could be an extremely productive day for you, but not necessarily from your own doing. You're likely to be in the right spot at the right time to profit from the activities of others.

▶ There are plenty of known quantities — asking for big money — on the free agent market, but there's also a big question mark from Japan.

Fire up the hot stove

▶ Free agency officially started this week and teams are already talking deals ▶ You know the Yankees will be shopping for a pitcher ▶ But can the Mets bring back their star shortstop?

The free agency market this year is topped by the greatest player of the last 20 years. He'll likely stay in St. Louis though. Metro looks at five intriguing free agents, including a couple that could be Yankees:

1 Albert Pujols — Pujols has been the biggest free agent all year and remains so after winning his second World Series title. Pujols enters free agency in a year when many of the big markets don't have openings at first base. It's difficult to imagine the Cardinals not retaining him even if it takes $25 million per year.

2 Jose Reyes — Reyes' free agency has been a day that many Met fans have dreaded. Reyes may not get Carl Crawford's $140 million, but figure on at least $100 million. With the Mets appearing to cut payroll to the $110-115 million range, this does not bode well for their fans. The Marlins have already shown interest, but the Giants and even Nationals could be players.

3 C.J. Wilson — Despite his poor postseason, someone will pay for Wilson's services and possibly even offer $100 million. A 16-game winner that has pitched 250 innings is hard to come by. Wilson might not be a Yankee or a Red Sox, but he can pitch against them — going 4-1 with a 1.56 ERA in nine starts.

4 Jonathan Papelbon — Despite giving up the two-strike hit that officially eliminated the Red Sox, Papelbon was significantly better last year. The Phillies are a possibility.

5 Yu Darvish — If he decides to leave the Nippon Ham Fighters, teams will have to pay a posting fee. The Yankees are reportedly interested.

Paterno on his way out

After 45 years it wasn't supposed to end like this.

The New York Times reported yesterday that Penn State football coach Joe Paterno is headed for the exit in the wake of his former assistant Jerry Sandusky being charged with the molestation of eight young boys.

Paterno reportedly plans to coach this weekend, but support from the board of trustees is wavering.

Neighborhood Profile: South Slope

▶ Restaurants, families and artists have kept this Park Slope stepchild bustling ▶ How it stays homey

YAEL GLINA

▶ You can still get a roomy apartment and be next to cool restaurants in South Slope.

TERRY SAINI OF PRUDENTIAL DOUGLAS ELLIMAN

▶ Apartments at 226 15th St. range from $450,000 to $1.2M. At 182 15th St., they go from $365,000 to $899,000.

As patrons walk into Roots Cafe in Brooklyn's South Slope, they're greeted with affection. While every neighborhood in NYC may have its "locals," Park Slope's southern neighbor has grown famous for its community feel and affordable cost of living, especially compared to the 'hoods that surround it.

Which is why developers and residents are asking: Will South Slope's increased popularity lead to the overdevelopment seen in areas such as Williamsburg or Downtown Brooklyn?

All signs for now point to a safe future, as those who have come in have taken steps toward keeping the brownstone culture intact. "It has the perfect mix of city feel and community aspects," says resident Yael Glina. "It's got everything you need without being too busy." This lack of overcrowding may be due to its distance from a major subway hub, as the trip to Midtown Manhattan will take 30 minutes or more.

"Over the last three years, a majority of the purchasers have been younger families with a baby on the way — as you can still get a two-bedroom under $600,000 with all the bells and whistles of Park Slope," explains Stephanie O'Brien of Prudential Douglas Elliman. The area may not earn jokes about needing stroller lanes like Park Slope does, but new developments such as 182 15th St. and the Karl Fischer-designed 226 15th St. have sprung up without pricing families out.

Other than the commercial and residential development on Fourth Avenue, these new buildings, in the heart of the neighborhood, seem to be capturing the charming aesthetics that surround them rather than building the glass towers that symbolize overdevelopment in other areas. Combine this homey feel with a pint and grilled cheese at neighborhood hot spot South, and it's safe to say the Slope is only pointing upwards.

Money matters

THE TABLE IS SET

Floral design star Michael Gaffney shows us how to turn corner store stems into a fancy centerpiece Don’t be mad when your Thanksgiving guests rave about it more than the bird

Sure, you’ve cooked for three days straight, but no self-respecting holiday table is complete without a centerpiece. “I’ve seen rooms with the best linens and crystals, but they’re not alive until you drop the flowers on the table,” says Michael Gaffney, founder of the New York School of Flower Design. (He’s responsible for the gorgeous arrangements in movies such as “Black Swan.”) “I often wonder why, and I think it’s because it adds another element to the room. Instead of metals and linens and materials, it adds life.”

And let’s face it — your guests are going to need some resuscitation from the food coma that’s about to go down. So to give our dinner tables a little more pep, Gaffney shows us how to craft a chic yet inexpensive arrangement (you can do this for less than $30)!

TINA CHADHA
tina.chadha@metro.us

If you go

Meet Michael Gaffney and talk shop with the floral designer tomorrow. Gaffney will be giving flower demonstrations and signing copies of new book, “Design Star,” which is full of step-by-step instructions and tips so you never have to spend on an overpriced bouquet again.

How-to guide

What you need:

- 2 dozen bicolored roses
- 1 urn
- Foam

Instructions:

1 Place soaked foam block into the urn. Cut the foam so it’s just above the rim. With the extra foam, fill the sides of the urn.

2 Cut the stems of eight roses down so they are about an inch and a half long.

3 Starting at the rim of the urn — what Gaffney refers to as the lower deck — place each of the eight roses into the foam at a 45-degree angle. “It’s like setting eight chairs around a table,” he says.

4 Cut the stems of three flowers down so they are about eight inches long.

5 Place the three flowers straight down in the center of the foam forming — what Gaffney calls the penthouse.

6 Cut the stems of eight to 10 roses down so they are about five inches long. Place these in between the lower deck and penthouse at a 45-degree angle.

7 Fill in any holes with extra roses.

8 Adjust each layer so you end up with a dome shape.

9 Add pieces of pittosporum or another green flower in any open spaces for the finishing touch.

10 Place on table and wait for compliments.

Helpful hints

3 TIPS FROM GAFFNEY

1 Avoid closed buds. Instead, buy roses that look like they're opening.

2 Make this arrangement two to three days before your party.

3 Spray flowers with Floralife Clear Crowning Glory Solution and they'll last up to two weeks.
